COUNTING THE CARS ON THE NEW JERSEY TURNPIKE

Psychoanalysts tell us that only when we dream do we reveal the nature of the deeply-lying fears and desires that are the unspoken bases of our behavior. When we dream, they say, we carry on an unconscious dialogue with ourselves; and since this dialogue takes place in a special language—one not readily translatable into everyday parlance—it must be deciphered through the analytical process. Only through critical reflection upon our most intimate experiences, it is argued, can we identify the unconscious constraints on our attempts to control our own destinies and become capable of truly seizing the levers of history-making in the manner dreamt of by past generations of revolutionaries.

Like individuals, so do nations and peoples share certain dreams, exhibiting in their culture certain recurrent motifs and scenarios. Just as the dreams of individuals can be deciphered only by seeing them in the light of their entire life history, so the dreams of a nation only become meaningful to its citizens when they are put into the perspective of the country's history—the collective biography of the people making up a nation.

Accordingly, we at WBAI want to observe this coming Fourth of July by devoting a full day's programming to the reexamination of our collective dreams, fears, and aspirations as a nation. Toward this end, we plan to present conversations with and talks by historians, social scientists, and philosophers regarding the meaning of American history and the sources of American political culture. We'll play American music ranging from the most popular songs of 1776 to those of the 1970's, from the ballads of Stephen Foster to those of Woody Guthrie, from the piano rags of Scott Joplin to the symphonies of Charles Ives, from Kate Smith's rendition of "God Bless America" to Jimi Hendrix's version of "The Star-Spangled Banner." We intend to broadcast old-time radio programs or recent Pacifica-produced radio drama to illuminate important aspects of our national past or, conversely, to satirize facets of our cultural traditions that no longer function in a socially progressive manner. There will be reevaluations of the role of women in American history, and readings of great American poetry. Finally, since the whole point of this exercise is not merely to reflect on what has been or might have been, but—by making us aware of the actual historical sources of our national identity as it is reflected in our self-understanding of our own deepest human interests—to help us once again gain control over our own destinies, we will talk with political activists about a second American revolution—how it might be related to our rooted in the traditions and dreams of generations past, as they were first expressed in the American Revolution and its aftermath.

Produced by Bruce Brown with the collaboration of whomever he can cajole, convoke, corrupt, or conscript from the Public Affairs, Drama and Literature, Music, and Women's Departments.

Black Women's SPEAKOUT: part 3

This is the final segment of the Speakout program. It will deal with three topics: black women and feminism, black interpersonal relationships, and the the black family. It will be held in the Harlem State Office Building at 163 West 125th Street in the second-floor art gallery. You are invited to attend, either in person, or over the phone. We hope that the three parts of the Speakout will serve as a model for regular black women's programming in the future. Produced by Elaine Baly.

S-1437/HR-6869: THE FUTURE OF CONSTITUTIONAL LIBERTIES

The Criminal Code Reform Act is now being considered by the House of Representatives. What does this bill signify for the future of our constitutional rights? Lloyd Katz brings together legal, religious, and labor experts in an effort to examine the bill. This program includes Senator Edward Kennedy's first public address about the bill, recorded in May at Jersey City State College.

PROFESSIONAL RESPONSE TO CHILD ABUSE: COOPERATION OR CONFLICT? Excerpts from a conference held on May 11 at the New York Academy of Science. Live phone calls will be taken with a professional from the conference following the taped portion of the program. Produced by Mike Feder.

our new producers

The Laughing Cavalier has been dragged back to WBAI, kicking and screaming. We sent him flowers daily, we telephoned him repeatedly with abject apologies. We were almost ready to give up and hire a graduate student working on a thesis on J.S. Bach to do his show when he suddenly relented—sending us into tearful outpourings of gratitude. Thank goodness! Do you know how much flowers cost?

MORNING MUSIC, FRIDAYS, 9:30 to NOON

You will also notice that we have a new News Director. We extend a very warm welcome to Don Rojas. Some of you may know Don as the former Managing Editor of the Amsterdam News. His credits include helping to form CANU, the Caribbean News Service, and freelance work in radio and print journalism. We are very proud to have with us someone so ably qualified to carry on the WBAI tradition of "the best newscast on radio in New York."

We are also pleased to have with us Samori Marksman of the Patrice Lumumba Coalition. Samori is a freelance journalist who has lived and worked in Africa. He will be producing a weekly news program, AFRICA AND THE WORLD, an in-depth review of current events in Africa, which can be heard Thursday evenings from 7:15 to 7:30, following the news. We all look forward to gaining a clearer perspective on the rapidly changing political developments in the continent that is a mystery to most of us.

"PAUL ROBESON"

THE PLAY, THE PROTEST, THE LEGACY, AND THE LESSONS

The play Paul Robeson has stirred up charges and countercharges of profiteering and distortion. On May 12, The Coalition of Concerned Black Americans held an open forum at Hunter College to discuss the uncertainties surrounding the play. Present were James Baldwin, Ossie Davis, Paul Robeson Jr., WBAI's Clayton Riley, and Dr. Jewell Handy Gresham. Moderators were Gil Noble and David Lampel. After the tape is played, a representative of the Coalition will take on-the-air phone calls from listeners. Produced by Wesley Brown and Judy Simmons.

We have just learned that Bob and Eileen Zalisk have won an Armstrong award for their program THE WOMEN TROUBADOURS. The program is an interview with Meg Bogin, author of The Women Troubadours, a study of twenty of the women poets who lived in Occitania (in southern France) during the 12th and 13th centuries. Our listeners join us in congratulating the Zalisks, two of WBAI's veteran producers, whose programs encompass diverse fields, including science, foreign affairs and drama.

FREEDOM of information: A brief history

BY J MATISSE ENZER

The following is a brief chronological listing of the major events that led to what is now Section 552 of Title 5 of the United States Code.

1789

Public "Housekeeping" Law. Gives federal agencies the authority to regulate the business of the agencies and to establish filing systems and keep records.

1946

Administrative Procedure Act. Section 3 of this act authorizes the withholding of information for "...good cause found" and in the "...public interest." This overly broad language was used by agencies to turn down requests for records which the agency felt were embarrassing or otherwise self-incriminating.

1958

Moss Bill. An amendment to the 1789 "Housekeeping" Law. "This section does not authorize the withholding of information to the public." Agencies, however, still relied on the original law (as well as the 1946 law) as authority to withhold information.

1966

Lyndon B. Johnson signs the Freedom of Information Act despite pleas from every government agency that the bill be killed. The FOI Act became effective on July 4, 1967.

1967

The FOI Act replaced the vague descriptions of informatino that could be withheld under SEction 3 of the Administrative Procedure Act with specific instructions as to the nature of deniable material. The FOI ACT became the only legal basis for withholding of information (Executive Orders and other laws were incorporated by reference). The burden of proof was placed on the agency to sustain its action in a denial. The Act provided that a court could enjoin an agency from withholding records. However, there were a number of loopholes that diluted the strength of the Act. Among these were that no time limits for compliance with a request of for response to an appeal were provided. This led to the extensive use of delaying tactics on the part of the agencies. Legal recourse was liable to be very expensive, and the Supreme Court ruled that a court could not review material contested by a requestor in camera (see 1973); also, no provision for legislative oversight was provided.

WBAI is on the air 24 hours a day, broadcasting at a frequency of 99.5 MHz. Our transmitter is located in the Empire State Building, and we broadcast with an effective radiated power of 5.4 kw (horizontal) and 3.85 kw (vertical). Power equivalent to 50 kw at 500 feet. Our antenna stands 1223 feet above average terrain. The studios are located at 505 Eighth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10018. Subscriptions and donations may be sent to WBAI, P.O. Box 1234S, Church Street Station, New York, N.Y. 10249. Business inquiries may be made by calling during working hours at (212) 279-3400. WBAI is owned and operated by the Pacifica Foundation, a non-profit corporation operating four other stations in Washington, D.C., Los Angeles, Berkeley and Houston.

Production costs for the Folio are made possible, in part, through a grant from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

REPORT TO THE LISTENER

Saying goodbye is always difficult—particularly saying goodbye to one's family or comrades. It is that time for me. I would like to say my goodbyes to the listeners, the staff and the Board.

I would like to express my deep love and commitment to Pacifica as an idea. Pacifica is unique and perhaps the most important broadcast institution in the country. With all the problems we have faced, we still broadcast in a way that no other station in the country is permitted.

My love and commitment to Pacifica springs from the realization that it is the only place where one's politics and broadcasting are married. Having worked at other broadcast outlets I know too well how different that is. No, you can't hear a Steve Post or news like ours elsewhere, and that means a great deal to me.

I am very grateful for having had this opportunity to serve as manager. I would not have changed that for the world. I learned a great deal, met some terrific people and am more convinced that ever that I spent the last two years at a very significant place.

We have just learned that Bob and Eileen Zalisk have won another Armstrong Award. I would like to thank and congratulate them for their excellent work as well as the hundreds of people who have put in thousands of hours to keep WBAI on the air.

I am excited about Elaine Baly as the new Program Coordinator and Rick Harris as the new Drama and Literature Director. Jessica Raimi has improved the Folio by a hundred percent. Bill Kortum has been a genius in the way he kept the communication between the station and the outside world in place. Richard Barr in a short time has put the Music Department back in shape. And without Dave Marx and the Engineering Department we would not be on the air. I'm grateful to Mary Houston for fending off all the creditors.

I have left out a lot of people, many of whom have been dedicated and worked blood and sweat to keep the Pacifica idea alive.

I don't think that there is any way to describe how it feels to work at a place where there is no typewriter that works, or where we use Larry Josephson's note pads to save money, or fight with the Labor Department, Con Ed, the phone company, the U.S. Supreme Court and the Real Estate Commission of New York at the same time. There's no way to explain how it feels to be eight weeks behind in pay. But there is also no way to explain how it feels to leave a place you love, a place that in many ways replaces family and friends, a place that is the only sunshine left in this country for real information.

There are far more people to thank than there is room for. However, I would like to thank Steve Post who has been a great joy to work with, a man who has influenced my life. Thanks to the Board for their help, to the staff who believed in an ideology and continued to struggle; and most of all I thank you subscribers for your continued support. With all the talented people at WBAI, the place will not only survive but continue to be the maverick that others will only copy.

Good luck and thank you.

LETTERS

Elect the Board

On BAI's financial crisis, I agree very much with the suggestion Ralph Love made in a letter you published in the April Folio: "...give some or all of the WBAI board positions to nomination and election by subscribers."

When BAI had its blowup last year, I was appalled to learn nothing like that took place all along. It certainly made me wonder if supporting you made sense as long as you try to subordinate listener "sponsorship" to a fat-cat board not elected by the same listeners.

Here is a year's sub. I hope pleas like Ralph Love's and mine will lead a basic democratization of BAI governance. I don't see how you can ask for taxation without representation, and get away with it.

George Fischer

Anti-Semitism

When I got your promo for money last week my first thought was to send it back with a note directing you to the P.L.O. or the Saudi Government for help.

Like so many others of your "Jewish-type" listeners I have felt an anti-Israel/pro-P.L.O. bias on your station (read: anti-Jew).

I feel all the more hurt by this since I sense that a large proportion of your staff is Jewish, and it hurts to hear them mouthing the international anti-Israel line that is sent out by all "left" of Communist governments.

Then came your Warsaw Ghetto program. I feel guilty about not sending more but April 15 was a bad day for me.

I'm basically a jazz freak and listen regularly to the ten to midnight programs—but I love all of BAI—like a father does a child. And when the child sounds stupid, petulant and overly self-assured—it hurts.

Deep down, those of us who were turned off (and turned away) by Julius Lester's poetry reading that night—probably were the bulk of the supporters.

A word to the wise—lure back Josephson for guest spots—give him a monthly food/restaurant show—it would be terrific.

Dear Listeners,

By the time you receive this edition of our Folio, I will have just finished my first month as Program Director. I am excited by the responsibility I have been given to help shape the programming and air sound of WBAI. In the time I have been a staffer, some of our programming has been very, very good, and some of our programming has been horrid! I'm sure you have your favorites as well as those you love to hate. My point is that we are committed to programming that is innovative, informative and relevant, as well as entertaining. Our city, our world and our lives are changing. New concerns and issues have replaced old ones, while some old ones have become even bigger. I am convinced that audience feedback is essential in achieving our goals. Write to us. Tell us what you like, what you dislike, what you want and what you need. I'd like to hear from our newest listeners, our young adult listeners, our senior listeners, and especially from those for whom radio is their most faithful companion. You can't always get what you want, but if you try, sometimes...

Yours in peace and progress

During recent months all the Local Board's energies have been absorbed with extricating ourselves from a tangle of back taxes and mortgage payments at our old broadcast facility on East 62nd Street. Local Board member Richard Asche directed this successful effort, resulting in a dramatic decrease in our station overhead from roughly $80,000 to $15,000 a year. He also worked closely with Dave Marx and other staff members on the move itself.

To raise desperately needed cash for the move, the Local Board initiated a special capital drive organized by Oscar Hanigsberg, a Local Board member who is also Treasurer of Pacifica. Mailgrams were sent to our thirty largest contributors with follow-up phone calls. We quickly raised about $8,000, worth $32,000 thanks to a 3-to-1 H.E.W. equipment matching grant. Over the next year we plan to increase our contact with old and new donors.

The Local Board also plans to meet with groups of listeners in the New York metropolitan area in order to increase support for the station without further burdening our airtime with appeals. One such meeting took place on the evening of June 3 with a group of fifty people at the home of Bernice Rosen in Metuchen, New Jersey. It was organized by Milton Zisman, a New Jersey C.P.A. who recently joined the Local Board. The meeting generated a lively discussion of station affairs as well as some greatly appreciated funds.

Finally, on behalf of the Local Board I would like to bid a fond farewell to Marty Goldensohn, whose news broadcasts will be sorely missed. And many thanks to Rick Harris for his fine work as Program Coordinator, and best wishes to his successor, Elaine Baly.

Hard times

Here's how we lived: without money, and with money
so hard to come by,
we handled it like a living thing and used it for necessities only.

We learned to make underwear out of gunny sacks, coffee out of parched chestnuts, we turned orange crates into arm chairs and put newspapers to so many uses, lining our roofs and shoes
with society pages, covering ourselves with sheets that were full of corruption, until the headlines were worn away and the paper was once again innocent.

Whatever we had, we held precious:
the wood-burning stove
and our daily bread,
the soil and its produce,
the lamp was kept trimmed to a low flame that lasted until bedtime.
We took what we could get and made light of it.

And so we lived
with all things in short supply, disciplined by necessity.
It's what we always came back to:
to drink the water, to eat the bread, to use what we'd been given to work with sparingly and lightly, the way my wife's fingers touched a dulcimer or guitar, to cultivate the art of survival.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH

7 May 1978

Dear Roger Larson,

Thank you for your letter. Even though you disagree with me, it's nice to know that people actually pay attention. I hope, however, you paid equal attention to the letter from Julius Lester on page 13 of the Folio.

My support of Bob Fass is not support of "one personality," it is a very real manifestation of my belief in the principles that WBAI allegedly stands for. Bob Fass, along with Mike Edl and Steve Finklestein have not returned to work at WBAI because they refused to sign a letter from the president of the Pacifica Foundation that they (as well as many other people) considered to be a "loyalty oath."

The letters from those you refer to as "Fass fans" are not fan letters—they are letters from people who feel that Fass's continued exile from WBAI and the reason for that exile indicate a turning away from the commitment to the First Amendment and to artistic freedom which were the reasons many of them supported the station for many years.

As to the "revitalized" WBAI you mention—I just don't see it. I see nepotism, careerism and neo-conservatism running rampant. From a station that tried to serve the radical community, WBAI has turned into a lip-service liberal radio station that deals with only the "safest" liberal causes. On May 3, two hours of programming were devoted to SunDay activities in N.Y. even though many of those activities were funded by money from Exxon and Westinghouse. The following day, the eighth anniversary of Kent State where a continuing struggle is going on, there was no special programming. The Yippie Smoke-In yesterday was announced continuously on WPIX and WNEW and covered by all the networks and radio stations. WBAI, which should see the issue of legalization and the issue of paraquat as important political issues was not interested. To the best of my knowledge there is no programming planned for June on the tenth anniversary of Robert Kennedy's assassination.

There are many important issues and many communities to be served in New York and the fact that the Black and Hispanic communities are being covered more than they were in the past is the only improvement I can see.

WBAI is becoming more and more a place of repression—both politically and artistically and the reason I stay is so that when the time comes when the people need WBAI again to be the kind of place it was in the 60's—when the political shit hits the fan again—my presence may make it possible for WBAI to be reborn in its commitment to serve the radical community—which is ultimately to serve all the people.

1972

Reports on the administration of the FOI Act prepared by the Congressional Research Service and the Committee on Government Operations indicated that many agencies are using delaying tactics to prevent disclosure of information. Agencies were found to have inflated the number of requests complied with by including in these figures requests for routine government information. (The Air Force claimed 202,957 formal requests for the period July 4, 1967 to July 4, 1971, with only 118 requests denied for that period). The high cost of litigation was seen as a major factor in preventing citizens from obtaining information.

1973

The Supreme Court ruled that the courts may not review classified material in camera (in camera review means that the judge would look at the information itself). (410 U.S. 73 [1973])

1974

The House and Senate passed PL 93-502, an amendment to the FOI Act, President Ford vetoed the bill and was overridden. The new law allows courts the right of in camera review, provides for the assessment of litigation cost to the plaintiff, relaxes the specificity with which records must be identified in a request, sets forth specific time limits for response by an agency to a request or appeal, and provides that an individual has "...exhausted his administrative remedies...if the agency fails to comply..." with the time limits for response. Also provided is that each agency must submit a yearly report to the House and the Senate to include statistics on the number of requests denied, and appealed as well as the decisions rendered in each case, along with the names and titles of persons responsible for denials. (These reports must be submitted on or before March 1st of each year.)

LET'S HEAR IT FOR THE
FIRST AMENDMENT

[WHILE WE STILL CAN]

GOVERNMENT CENSORSHIP is about to take a great leap forward.

A government agency—The Federal Communications Commission—believes it has the right to act as our parents and restrict the broadcast of certain words at times when children just might be listening—regardless of any literary, artistic, or social value or the fact that this could seriously limit free expression in the broadcast medium.

The FCC acted after WBAI—a listener sponsored Pacifica radio station in New York—broadcast a monologue by comedian George Carlin about "seven words you can't say on TV" which satirizes how people get uptight by the use of certain words.

Their mailbox clogged with one letter of complaint, the FCC ruled Pacifica to be in violation of the Federal Communications Act. In deciding that a government agency has the right to tell broadcasters what they can or cannot say on the air, they essentially trampled all over the First Amendment.

When Pacifica challenged this ruling, a U.S. Court of Appeals held that the FCC had overstepped its authority in banning "indecent language" at certain hours and that it had wrongly entered into "the forbidden realm of censorship."

Undaunted, the FCC has now taken the "Carlin Case" to the Supreme Court which will consider this critically important constitutional question: Do all First Amendment rights traditionally enjoyed by free press also extend to radio and television?

Opposing the FCC—standing up for the right to broadcast a free flow of information and your right to hear it—is Pacifica radio. Broadcasting for thirty-two years, Pacifica is known as "First Amendment Radio," unrestricted by advertisers and committed to the presentation of all points of view.

What happens in the Carlin Case will not only affect Pacifica but the entire broadcast industry as well. And this, of course, affects YOU.

It's been a tough and expensive battle for us. . . . Now we're asking for your help. Your contribution to the Pacifica First Amendment Fund will help insure that one of our most basic freedoms—the freedom of speech—will remain intact. And, it will help us keep on broadcasting words that the government would rather not hear.

On the lamb (sic)

the folio (Sun. 18-Tues. 27, June) is beyond egoism.....completely illustrative of how self-contained, self-righteous, and self-satisfied the bai staff has become what has this listener of 10 years (financial supporter as well) so angry...and over the edge is page 9.

your patronizing insensibility is astonishing and tho i've been fighting the feeling i'm now of the belief that self-conceit and mutual desire on the part of the staff for mass exhaultation of your personalities and ideas is the impelling "force" for all of your conscious action....it is certainly not a politic.

you—so proud of what bob represented, relentlessly stood for, faught for and created in radio at bai.....what bai could have become (culturally-personally-politically).....and now has backstepped so far that it doesn't seem to have a glimmer of a chance.

i dare anna and "you all" to put a huge picture of the bob fass of "your" today on wall 359.....that is more representative and real...are you so insensitive and oblivious to his devestation and torment (that you so masterfully "executed") that his presence doesn't disturb you???.....personally, politically, symbolically??????

Its not unlike the surrealistic images of jimmy carter wearing a tee-shirt with Castro's face emblazoned on it, the buffalo on the nickel, badillo in the bronx, the marines (us mercenaries) wearing the ears of the dead vietnamese and now the black ears of zimbabwe.
some of your shows are good, and the news is the best around, but your total act is very very sad...as is the whiteness of your screen.....your nuances are a sham.... your mentality is still middle class and your "politic" is on the lamb.

think about it

More on the same subject

Four or five times in the course of his letter in the May, 1978 issue of the Folio, Julius Lester hammers out the word "creative" as though it were a magic charm, part of an incantation. At no time, however, does he define his "creativity," nor does he tell in whose service a producer at WBAI should be creative—in that of the audience's needs or that of his own Muse; in that of audience "taste," or that of his own ego. (One can surmise, however.)

The letter, an ostensible appeal for the return to WBAI of Bob Fass and Mike Edl, gives only the shallowest, most formalistic* of reasons for justifying their return. It leads up to the crescendo that the saddest thing of all is to realize that there is no longer a place at the station for Lester himself! (despite his being "happily ensconced in New England"!)

I would like to suggest that he seems to have succeeded in at least one quarter with his "creativity"-banner. He appears to have so impressed Ed Goodman with this abstraction that on at least two occasions when meeting with the Friends of WBAI, Goodmn repeatedly defended producers' rights to "creativity" over the needs and rights of the audience.

When this policy began to become effective at the station, programming began to reflect the subjectivity and narcissism of certain producers; audience discontent was reflected in the declining subscriptions, and all of this led inevitably to the mutual recriminations between staff and management.

Precisely because of the irresponsible egotism encouraged by Goodman (inspired, according to Lester, by himself)—in the name of freedom of "creativity" of the staff —the needs of the audience were forgotten, and the events leading up to February 11, 1977, began to take shape.

Those producers, however, whose value systems dictated that the needs of the audience came before their own impulses to be irresponsibly "creative" were, ironically, the very ones who were sacrificed in that massacre. Those who (for the most part) remain are now all as "creative" as Lester could possibly ask for.

*P.S. Bob Fass's appeal lay in the content and relevance of his broadcasting, not alone in its free-form. His conference calls permitted listeners freely to communicate matters of general concern.

Constructive criticism

Dear WBAI:
(Custom determines the use of "dear")
Why have I not given to your current gruesome marathon?

1. I sent in TWO ten dollar subs, one in the fall, one early in spring. I got a folio in April. Since then, nothing. I suppose you are not issuing folios for the marathon, but not even a mimeo sheet?

2. Your best programming, as far as I can determine, occurs at 5 a.m. when I am so drugged with SLEEP that my critical faculties may not be functioning. But at 5 a.m. I heard Dr. Helen Caldicott of Harvard discussing nuclear dangers. I am not usually awake at 5 a.m. I imagine your audience is minimal at that time.

3. Your 7-to-9 slot has lost me. Steve Post I will tune in on I suppose as long as the horizon is favoring your signal. But Clayton Reilley? He even found it racist to say what a dank dark (GET IT, DARK?) day, and I just can't hack that at 7 a.m. I'd rather have a cigarette cough in the morning than a c.r. gorge rising. And Wednesday, I regret to say to the dear lady of my gender (I assume), leaves me yawning.

4. I tuned in the mobilization for survival in the afternoon as I was driving out of town, having left the site of it early, and found a dreary little program (by ladies again of my gender) about budgets, whose content was worthy of the junior high home ec teachers.

5. Why don't you have a program about the whole no nukes movement on a continuing basis? Maybe you do but where is my folio to tell me. What have you done with Lindsay Audin? Why do you continue to say you are non commercial when all kinds of people use the (your-our) airwaves to push their friends. The witch as a case in point. Where do you find your poets? Who is your literate-literary editor? Why do you play so much junky 1930's music, sung by ladies with aluminum thin voices? You don't play current schlocky music, so it is a kind of reverse snobbism to play old schlocky pop music.

6. Why don't I give up on you? I try, I really do, but the buttons are set on the Datsun radio and the house radio picks up the elevator on AM.

7. You never answer mail that I can figure. I suppose you get so much of it that the polite brush off form letter is too expensive an item for your budget.

8. Then where is the report to the listeners, alive or canned? Speaking of canned, has Anna K. been? How much did you make on the sale of the church? (Buying it was a bit of ill advised radical chic cutesy idiocy. When you say non-commercial you mean without any business acumen.) Do you need a volunteer—forget it, maybe in the fall.

Gloria Channon

1. Our Subscriptions Department is looking into this matter. Thank you for taking the time and trouble to write to us as you did. We certainly owe you our sincere apologies for the inconvenience and annoyance I know we must have caused you.
2. Maybe it only seems better because you're half asleep.
3. Les gouts et les couleurs ne se discutent pas.
4. We aren't sure which program you mean.
5. Good idea. How about it, Jon? Sorry you didn't get your Folio in June to see that Lindsay Audin has been back. Our producers' friends do not, in general, make any money either. We meet poets in bars, at readings, wherever poets hang out. Some of them we heard of in the New York Times Book Review or little magazines, and sought out to record or interview. You mean Folio editor? What's wrong with being either literate or literary? Please explain. Interesting point about the music. But you see, we don't have a music policy here except to try to play what other stations do not offer.
6. We dunno. Maybe it's our after-shave.
7. Your deduction is correct.
8. In the Folio. We particularly call your attention to this month's Report, in the Folio we are making sure you receive. We will certainly miss Anna, and we wish her good luck in her future endeavors. We cleared between two and three thousand on the sale of the Church, after paying off expenses associated with the move and the sale of the old building. We were evicted from our quarters on 39th Street and we thought it better to be landowners—you can understand how we felt, surely. And we thought we were tax-exempt. It's a long story. We would only bore you with it. We do sometimes lack business acumen. We're the first to admit it. But we're unquestionably non-commercial, in this plastic age we live in. That's why you still tune in. Why don't you stop fighting it and resubscribe? We'll try to send you your Folio. We have thousands of satisfied subscribers. We need you as much as you need us. J.R.
